Elk Point royal to remember

Elk Point Royal Canadian Legion has announced their plans for the 1996 Remembrance Day observances.

The morning will begin with a parade to the cenotaph, starting at 10:50 a.m.

The outdoor cenotaph ceremony will conclude with the placing of wreaths, after which everyone is invited into the Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre for a program involving brief addresses from a number of dignitaries and a short service led by Branch Chaplain, Pastor Jim MacLellan.

Everyone is welcome to join in this service of remembrance, honoring those who served this country on our behalf in the two World Wars, Korea and the various peacekeeping missions around the world.

Few changes as Council reorganizes

Elk Point Town Council held their annual Organizational Meeting on October 28, with only a few changes from last year's procedures and committee lineups.

Meetings will continue to be held on the second Monday of each month, beginning at 7:00 p.m. When a Monday holiday falls on the regular Council meeting date, the meeting will be held on the Tuesday of that week.

Honorariums for meetings will remain the same, as will payment for travel on Town business, however a payment of $65 per night accommodation allowance without receipt was added for those travelling on Town business.

The Chairman of the Public Works Committee was added to the Municipal Signing Authority.

Members of standing committees will remain as they were last year. These are:

Executive Committee — Ed Buck, Dave Yake, Ron Smith, Louis Verhagen.

Utilities/Public Works Committee — Bill Schuhmacher, Dave Yake, Dan Povaschuk,

HEALTH CARE WORKERS NEED FUN TOO! And Halloween was a great time for dress-up high-jinks at the Elk Point Health Centre. From Raggedy Anne and Andy to a pair of Flying Nuns, from a balloon-panted genie to a mysterious three-legged man, everyone was having a great time in their Halloween garb. You'd never guess who these folks are!

Elk Point well represented at BCDC's Entrepreneur Showcase

Eight Elk Point businesses took part in the St. Paul / Smoky Lake Business and Community Development Association's Small Business Showcase and Dessert Reception on October 29 in St. Paul, two of them as nominees for the prestigious "Entrepreneur of the Year" award.

Chosen as nominees were the home-based Linwood Arts and a former home-based business which moved uptown this summer, Pioneer Radio Control.

Linwood Arts is operated by Linda and Wayne Hymanyk. Linda is a certified ceramics instructor and offers classes three evenings and one afternoon per week, as well as a children's class. Wayne's talents focus on watercolor paintings, statues and lamps. The Hymanyks have a number of unique and interesting ceramic pieces for sale, and can create others for custom gift orders. They have overcome problems with finding sources for their craft supplies, and now deal with a total of 17 suppliers.

Jody Lecopoy founded Pioneer Radio Control as a home-based business in 1994. This past February, he took on a partner, Brian Moneta, and later in the spring, the two moved the business to its present Main Street location. The new site gives better exposure to their excellent lineup of model planes, kites and radio control needs. Both partners are members of the Elk Point

RC Flyers and are well versed in the needs of RC plane owners. Business has increased to the point that they may need to find a larger store, and they are also planning to offer a mail order service.

The duo of Smoky Lake Dry Cleaners and Billy's Western Wear, a combined business which revitalized a closed business location, and Mulak's Transport and Creekview Acres, owned by Randy and Betty Mulak of Waskatenau, which pairs up a successful grain hauling business with a strawberry garden, were the other two nominees, with Mulak's Transport receiving the award.

Other Elk Point and district businesses taking part in the Showcase were Kelly's Closet, critters Pet and Livestock Feed and Supply, In Days of Olde, Florence's Country Crafts, Akdeem Decorating and Pleasantdale Industries.

Kelly's Closet, operated by Sherry and Kelly Oszust, offers jeans, tops and other popular brand name casual apparel for both men and women.

critters Pet and Livestock Feed and Supply is a rapidly growing business operated by Gail Kozicky, which is adding a large array of giftware to their current lines.

An eye-catching display featuring everything from teddy bears to scented candles showed the best of Tara Nielsen and Jennifer Carson's wares from In Days of Olde.

Florence's Country Crafts, operated by Florence Demchuk, is another downtown business which started out at home, and has a wide range of supplies for crafters as well as great gift ideas.

Ellen and Diane Ziomek's Akdeem Decorating supplies a variety of quilting needs, including sets of pre-cut patches, backing and fiberfill.

Richard Pilisko's Pleasantdale Industries is the home of finely handcrafted wood furniture.

A number of businesses from across the counties of Smoky Lake and St. Paul also were part of the Showcase.

LINWAY ARTS -- Linda and Wayne Hymanyk are the creators of a wide range of pottery giftware, as well as watercolor art.

Remembrance Day is November 11

By Deanna Easthope

FCSS Director

Next Monday, November 11 is Remembrance Day. It is the day we pause to remember all those men and women who fought in the two Great Wars and the Korean War. To help us remember, many of us will be wearing our poppies.

It was during World War I that John McCrae, a Canadian military surgeon, after observing the toll of dead and wounded, which had been appalling, began thinking of all the tragedies of war. He noticed that in the morning he could hear the larks singing between the crash of the guns and he could see the rows of crosses in a nearby cemetery. The field where the cemetery lay was thick with scarlet poppies. McCrae took the scene in and quickly wrote a short poem of fifteen lines on a page torn from his dispatch book, speaking as from the dead to the living. "In Flanders Fields" was to become the most famous poem of the Great War. It describes the effects of war while life still goes on.

As to the effects of war, many of us have not experienced war in our homeland or been a part of the wars being remembered on November 11. We are fortunate. There have been other "fighting" areas that some people may have been involved in. I am sure if we talk to anyone who has been involved in some way, we will learn from them that war or fighting is a terrible tragedy that brings out the worst human behaviour possible. Oh, that this wouldn't happen.

I remember when I was in the early grades of elementary school, and for a couple of weeks before it was official, my teacher would talk to us about the problems that were developing in Korea. When it became official that the Korean War began, I remember being very sad and frightened. I didn't totally understand. In my young mind, all I could think of was — "Please stop fighting!" For around me, I saw adults trying to explain to young children why adults fight in such a big way. As a young child —

I didn't really hear what they were saying — I only looked at their faces. My teacher was very sad and it made me frightened and scared. The teacher could only reassure us that we were fairly safe as we were many miles and an ocean away. But some young men in our area were going over to Korea to help fight.

Yes war and fighting of any kind effects everyone. It seems to be a coincidence that also in November is Family Violence Prevention Month. Both war and family violence involve fighting. If only it could be simply said, like I said when I was a young child — "please stop fighting!" and all involved would listen and do things that made the situation better.

In Flanders Fields

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

—John McCrae

Nutrition notes

Calcium and osteoporosis

By Julia Painchaud

Dietician, Elk Point Health Centre

Osteoporosis is a decrease in total bone mass due to a progressive lack of calcium. The result is porous bones that break easily. It is estimated that one in four women and one in eight men will develop osteoporosis. Women are at greater risk because women usually don't consume enough calcium, are more likely to be dieting, lose the protective effect of estrogen at menopause, have less bone mass than men, and women live longer. Some risk factors for osteoporosis cannot be controlled, such as age and genetics. But you do have control over eating habits, exercise, caffeine intake, alcohol intake and smoking.

Bones act as a calcium bank. If dietary intake of calcium is low, calcium will be withdrawn from your bones in order to maintain blood calcium levels. If this happens over a long period of time it will result in porous bones. At around age 35, "Peak Bone Mass" is reached. This is defined as "the highest level of bone mass that can be achieved." Maximizing peak bone mass will help to maintain strong bones later in life.

It is recommended that adults consume 800 mg of calcium per day; women who are pregnant or breast feeding need an additional 500 mg per day. Consuming milk products daily helps to meet your calcium needs. Milk products (particularly fluid milk, hard cheese and yogurt) contain an excellent source of protein per serving and the calcium is easily absorbed by our bodies. Spinach, kale and broccoli are also good sources but the calcium is not so easy for our bodies to absorb. Canned salmon with bones, sardines and baked beans also provide calcium.

For more information on how much calcium you should be consuming and ways to increase the calcium content of your diet, you can consult Canada's Food Guide to Healthy Eating and your local Registered Dietician. For more information on Osteoporosis you can contact the Osteoporosis Society of Canada.

Spotlight on Volunteers

Recycling quilters are busy as bees

"THREE IRENES AND A MURIEL" — Irene Magnusson, Iryne Buck, Irene Melin and Muriel Holthe are regular participants in the weekly 'Recycled Quilting Bees.' They proudly display some of the handsome quilts created this fall by the group, and are busy cutting patches for the next creation. Barb Milholland (below) cuts apart discarded garments ready to make more patches, while Grace Pinder keeps the pedal to the metal stitching up a quilt which will then be "fit to be tied." Not shown are regular participant Mickey Cinnamon and project coordinator Verona Lea Flanders.

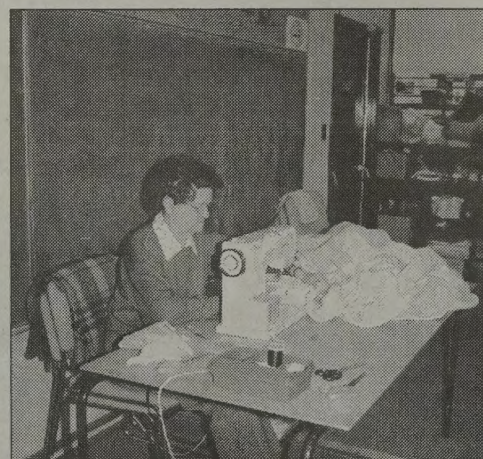

"Use it up, Wear it out, Make it do, Or do without" was a saying most of the ladies who gather each Wednesday at Elk Point Further Education grew up with. That philosophy still spurs on this energetic crew, who keep things humming as they transform mounds of discarded clothing and bedding into cosy quilts to help keep less fortunate individuals warm.

The group of four to seven volunteers have created over 80 colorful quilts, plus such items as lap robes and toiletry bags, since they started meeting in the spring of 1994. Since they resumed their efforts this September after a summer break, they have completed ten quilts.

The quilts go to such agencies as the Bissel Centre, the Crisis Centre, Bonnyville Friendship Centre and Jelinek House. Some have gone to the Red Cross disaster services, while others have gone to fire victims.

All items used in the quilts are donated. Some of it comes from the United Church Rummage Store, some from other sources. All of it is patiently cut apart, cut into quilt patches, sewn into quilt tops, then assembled with filling and backing, and hand tied by the volunteers. While most of the work is done right there at Further Ed, there are a couple of other ladies who take home a set of patches and sew up quilt tops.

More volunteers would be welcome to join the group. They meet Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., bringing along their lunch and scissors. Some bring along a sewing machine as well. No experience is needed, according to Verona Lea Flanders. "We have a lot of fun, and so far nobody's been fired!"

OUR BEAR NECESSITIES HELP HIM SURVIVE

Who knew that small bears in Jasper National Park would find our power poles so irresistible? And that they would put their lives in danger?

Right away, we set out to find a solution. Our people worked with Parks Canada and local environmentalists to come up with a way to stop the bears from climbing the poles.

They developed a clamp that was easy to install, unobtrusive and safe. The bears can't get past them, so they can't get hurt.

It's one of those small but terribly important things our people do as they go about their job of bringing safe and affordable power to you.

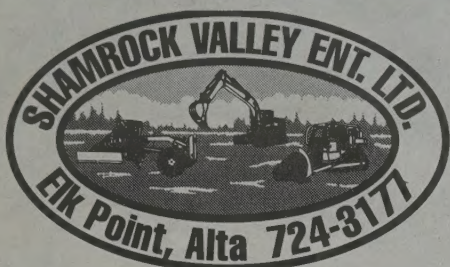

They've made it a bear necessity, so to speak.

Saddle Slickers Light Horse 4-H news

By Joann Davies

Club reporter

We held our first meeting of the new 1996-1997 year in Elk Point at the Elementary School on October 10 at 6:15 p.m.

There were approximately 25 members present so it looks like and eventful year ahead.

The election of officers was held. Our new president is Jamie Schnurer, Vice President is Ashley Larson, Secretary is Alyssa Fry, Treasurer is Crystal Smith, Historian is Jaylene Purdy, Parliamentarian is Alexis Hines, and Club Reporter is Joann Davies.

We met again at Marion Ryan's on October 20th for a ride-a-thon about 10 miles that included wonderful scenery along the Vermilion River.

Our next ride was at the Elk Point arena on October 26th. The next meeting will be held on November 7th.

4-H Week celebrating Alberta youth

4-H... it's more than you ever imagined! November 4 through 10 is the time to celebrate how wide 4-H reaches and contributes in communities across Canada. Alberta's 4-H membership is over 8700 strong and boasts another 2700 leaders.

"4-H is all about opportunities. For more than 75 years, 4-H has brought leadership and development programs into Alberta communities," says Ted Youck, head of the home economics and 4-H branch. "Young people 'Learn to do by doing' through their club projects. Currently there are more than 20 projects to choose from. They range from the traditional variety of live-stock projects, crafts and sewing to computers, environment, photography, small engines, veterinary science and the new entrepreneurial project, Business Cents," notes Youck.

In their clubs, members learn how to run a meeting and hold office in an organization. Personal development extends to public speaking, a key component of the 4-H program. "Alberta 4-H clubs continue to grow with technology," adds Youck. "An exciting new addition to the Alberta program is the 4-h web site at <http://www.agric.gov.ca/ruraldev/4h>. As well, this fall Telus is sponsoring an Internet contest.

Clubs have the opportunity to design a club web page. They will also demonstrate their Internet surfing skills by correctly answering a series of skill testing questions. The winning club will be awarded an Internet-ready, Pentium multimedia computer with printer, sponsored by Veridian."

Members and leaders also have the opportunity to be active beyond the club level at district, regional and provincial camps, speaking competitions, exchanges and special events such as Club Week. New for 1997 is Project Congress. This summer event invites all 4-h members and leaders to participate in a variety of project related activities. Current and former 4-H members are also eligible for a wide variety of post-secondary scholarships. The 4-H program administers more than 80 privately sponsored scholarships worth close to $80,000.

The national awareness week provides an opportunity for 4-H members and leaders to profile 4-H in their communities. In this province, Alberta Treasury Branches, one of 4-H's proud sponsors, is recognizing clubs by inviting them to put displays in local branches. In 1995, there were more than 42,000 members and 12,000 leaders in Canada's 4-H movement.

TRICK OR TREAT! These Halloweeners visited the Review office on their rounds last Thursday, and added to their bulging bags of goodies. For once, weather was great for Halloweening.

What's news at the library?

A howling good time at the Storytime Halloween Party!

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

We had a howling good time at the library's Halloween party (apparently my clown costume terrified a couple of party-goers). For a while it looked like a superhero convention with two Batmen and 3 Supermen. We all had our pictures taken, decorated pumpkins (on display in the library) and ate cake.

We also said goodbye to Marie Hays, whose Ace project ended this month. Marie was a quiet presence in the library and most of the time she was working when the library was closed to the public, but the amount of work she did was incredible. Thanks to Marie, we are little bit closer to full automation.

The expected box of books has arrived (actually it was two) and we have a whole new batch of best-sellers. Most of the following have waiting lists so come in and sign up:

Selected Stories by Alice Munro is a collection of 28 stories from her seven previous short story collections.

Fourteen-year-old Eliot Gardener hates his new home in British Columbia and one day his rage overcomes him and he slices up his family, leaving Staff Sergeant Karl Alberg with one of his most disturbing cases ever in Strangers Among Us by L. R. Wright.

Marge Piercy tells the story of the French Revolution through the eyes of three women and the noted historical figures that affect their lives in City of Darkness, City of Light.

Mary Higgins Clark introduces us to a new husband and wife sleuthing team, former president Henry Parker Britland IV and his newly elected congresswoman wife Sunday in My Gal Sunday, a collection of four stories.

A chance meeting in Venice leads to a widowed foreign correspondent and an unhappily married glass designer into a passionate affair in A Secret Affair by Barbara Taylor Bradford.

A man just returned from service in World War II cannot forget a beautiful girl he met years earlier. When she unexpectedly reappears in his life, they are forced to re-examine their feelings and decide whether or not they can overcome the obstacles that are keeping them apart in The Notebook by Nicholas Sparks.

Richard Adams returns to the world of the rabbits he created in Watership Down in Tales From Watership Down.

In this book he relates the folk tales and legends that every rabbit knows and the further adventures of the rabbits from the first book.

Scott Turow's newest book, The Laws of Our Fathers begins with a spectacular drive-by shooting that may have been instigated by the victim's son.

Ken Follett returns to the realm of adventure and suspense with The Third Twin. A genetic researcher discovers two young men who appear to be identical twins, yet they were born on different days to different women.

Mourning Doves by Helen

Forrester is the tale of three women who face an uncertain future in the aftermath of World War II.

Three point weekend for Thunder

By Doug Bassett

Elk Point Thunder

Friday night the action started early when the Lloydminster Blazers rolled into town to meet the mighty Thunder in the second league game of the season.

Thirty seconds after the drop of the puck in the first period, Brad Pankiw scored when he was set up all alone in front by rugged right winger Jordan Bassett. The Blazers tied the game half way through the first, but the Thunder soon took the lead again when Bradley scored his second of the game on a backhand to give the Thunder a 2-1 lead after 20 minutes.

Early into the second the Blazers once again tied it up, but then the birthday boy, big #9 Loren Kozicky, made it 3-2. Loren, after spending six weeks with the Bonnyville Jr. "A" Pontiacs, returned to the Thunder to be with his old teammates and to finish his education. Not bad for the kid who just turned 17 Friday night and who has always played his minor hockey in Elk Point.

Into the third period the pace really picked up when once again the Blazers tied the game. Ferlin Quinney became the hero, undressing the defence on a breakaway and deking the goalie with 1:24 remaining in the game to make it 4-3, a big win for the Thunder and great entertainment for their loyal fans.

Sunday afternoon the rough team from Wainwright travelled through the snow storm to battle the Thunder in another entertaining game. The Bisons opened the scoring first at 11:44 of the first period, but Brad Pankiw answered with two goals before the teams retired at the end of one.

One minute into the second, the Thunder took a 3-1 lead when Shawn Waskewitch went top shelf to score. Then it was Brad Pankiw scoring again, giving him a hat trick. Talented Bradley is off to a good start this season, leading the team with 8 goals in 6 games.

The Bisons scored once again on a power play to make it 4-3 after 40 minutes. Thirty seconds into the third things looked good when the Thunder took a 2 goal lead once more with Jordan Bassett's power play goal. But the Bisons would not be defeated on this night, scoring twice more to make the final 5-5, and giving the Thunder a 3-point weekend.

Meanwhile, Thunder's farm team, the Bantam Lightning, defeated Medley Saturday night in a close game, two goals from Darcy Stafford in this one.

This week the Thunder hosts Ben Poulin and the Mallaig Monarchs on Friday night, and then travel to Kitscoty Sunday afternoon to meet their arch-rival Pitbulls.

Elks open their annual Christmas party and dance to the community

Elk Point BPO Elks Lodge is opening their annual Christmas party to the community at large this year, for the first time ever. The gala event, which includes dinner, entertainment by a comedian and dancing, is slated for December 13.

The Elks are very community minded and strive to help make Elk Point one of the best communities in Alberta. Over the years they have made donations to numerous organizations which have requested their financial help with projects and activities.

This ongoing benevolence is becoming more and more difficult as Elks membership slowly falls and members get older and less active, resulting in less help with fundraising events.

New members would be very welcome. If you are interested in donating a small amount of your time to help your community, have a chat with one of the Elks at the party, and they would be happy to tell you about the organization.

The Elks would sincerely appreciate a good attendance from the community at this pre-Christmas celebration. You are invited to bring along your friends and family, and small business employers are encouraged to consider bringing along their staff for a Christmas treat. The event will not only celebrate the season, it will help the Elks continue their most cherished task of helping the young, the sick, the elderly and the community at large.

Curling leagues starting up soon

Dig out your brooms, everyone — curling season in Elk Point gets underway next week. Both the Mixed League and Ladies' Evening League will start on Tuesday, November 12, while the Men's League starts Wednesday, November 13. All three leagues have a single draw at 7:30 p.m.

New to the lineup this year is a Ladies' Afternoon Fun League, which has a tentative starting date of Friday, November 15. This league is designed both for those who already enjoy curling, and those who would like to learn the game. The club hopes to arrange for a babysitter to be in attendance during these afternoons. Game time is noon to 3:00 p.m.

The Curling Club has some new faces on their 1996-97 executive. Leonard Gadowski is back as president, with Curtis Porcina as Vice President. Judi Babcock retains her seat as treasurer, but is hoping to find someone to replace her in this capacity. Directors are Susan MacKinnon, Sheldon Ballas Bryce Lorenson, Richard Lavoie and Doug Rutherford.

Improvements to the curling rink this year include new walkways along the sides. Also, sweeping lines extending from four-foot circle to four-foot circle are being installed on all four ice sheets.

Don't be rushed this Christmas!
